Truth Journal

Said I would do HW later along with this Truth Journal, but forgot. Am writing in the morning.

2-24 I killed my brother today and said he tripped on a mouse.
I lied today in my truth journal
I told my brother that my mother gave away her $80 label-maker.
MAJOR TRUTHS I resisted temptation of cutting English class because I lacked homework! Cutting is bad ☺

2-25 I told myself I would read up on my English, but didn't.

2-26 I can't think of any lies which occured today.

2-27 I said I had to get off of the phone to go to the bathroom, but didn't. Felt bad!

2-28 Didn't ~~call~~ try and get homework given on Thursday and Friday!

- monochromatic - One colored light,
- monocle - Eyeglass,
- monologue - Group of words said by 1 person,

John, upon reaching the top of the mountain, was bathed in a monochromatic yellow light. He then heard a monologue from a very powerful voice, which by no means was limited to monosyllabic words. The monologue ~~praised~~ stressed monogamy and monotheism over John. This upset him greatly for he had many wives and did not want to be ruled by a ~~monarch~~ monotheistic monarch such as this voice. Through his monocle, he could see a huge monolithic building. Because of John's great confusion, John suffered the rest of his life with monotony. John became annoyed at this monomania and left the mountain.
